Generally the index of refraction of the medium is required to vary between set minimum and maximum values, and the medium itself must be confined to a slab of finite thickness bounded on either side by a vacuum. The problem as stated, however, is an ideal one which seems impossible to solve. The most one can hope to do is to guarantee that a large percentage of the incident energy in a given frequency band over a given range of incidence angles will be transmitted with a correspondingly small percentage of the energy reflected by the medium. As a start toward investigating this restricted, but still difficult, version of the problem it seems reasonable to look for dielectric media which are transparent in an even more limited sense. Thus, we shall consider an infinite class of dielectric media having the following properties: (1)...
